Sister heartbroken as killer sentenced to 20 years in jail

Not enough, she says. Families weep, rage as Crown outlines facts of two grisly killings

Sentence

"In nine years, do I get to see my sister? Does she get to come back to me? No. That's not fair at all."

Amanda Sinclair, sister of victim Carolyn Sinclair, referring to the nine years before her killer can file for parole.

The sister of a slain woman said an apology from the man who killed Carolyn Sinclair and Lorna Blacksmith meant nothing.

"It was just like sticking a knife in my back," said Amanda Sinclair to media outside the Law Courts building Thursday. "This was just as painful as having to sit through a trial."

Shawn Lamb, who was originally charged with second-degree murder, pleaded guilty to two counts of manslaughter in a Winnipeg courtroom.

Court of Queen's Bench Justice Rick Saull accepted the 20-year sentence recommended by both the Crown and defence. Lamb, 54, can apply for parole in nine years.

Amanda said the plea deal means Lamb could be back on the streets too soon.

"In nine years, do I get to see my sister?" Sinclair said as she choked up. "Does she get to come back to me? No. That's not fair at all. I'm never going to get her back."

The families of the two women sobbed as the Crown read out the gruesome facts of the case. Many left or were escorted out by security after yelling and swearing at Lamb.

Lamb told police he hit Sinclair, 25, over the head with an axe handle, strangled her and left her body in his bathroom for several days before he dumped it near a garbage bin.

He told police he strangled Blacksmith, 18, with a TV cord, tried to revive her and then left to buy drugs. He eventually dumped her body behind an abandoned house, where it wasn't found until six months later.

Lamb briefly caused a stir when he declared he wanted to rescind his guilty pleas because he objected to the word "psychopath," apparently included in a medical report.

After consulting with his lawyer, however, he said his pleas would stand.

Lamb still faces charges in the death of Tanya Nepinak, whose body has never been found. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Manitoba eyeing federal, municipal cash for help

Development. The government's promise to spend money on infrastructure is getting some heat from the Opposition

A promise of a record $5.5 billion in infrastructure spending — the keystone of the Manitoba throne speech this week — is not all provincial money, a government minister said Thursday.

The cash includes federal and municipal cost-sharing that has yet to be determined.

"The amount that we've costed out, basically, is the cost of the full investment in infrastructure. Some of that may be cost-shared," said Infrastructure and Transportation Minister Steve Ashton.

"We're in early stages with the federal government. It's hard to say (how much they'll pay). It's all project by project."

The NDP government has touted its infrastructure plan in part as justification for its sales-tax increase this year. The tax was raised to eight per cent from seven in July and the government has promised to spend every cent of the extra revenue on roads, bridges, flood-proofing and other core infrastructure.

At the same time, the New Democrats have promised to limit spending to balance the budget by the 2016-17 fiscal year. The budget plan calls for all government spending — in all departments — to rise by a total of only $832 million over the next three years.

The infrastructure plan calls for $5.5 billion over five years — an average of $1.1 billion annually.

The Opposition Progressive Conservatives said the government's promises will be hard to achieve without blowing the budget.

"This government ... has overspent every single year

Transportation Minister Steve Ashton said the money to pay for the province's infrastructure promises will likely come from all three levels of government. BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO for 15 years," Tory Leader Brian Pallister said.

Pallister also accused the government of misleading voters by not specifying in the throne speech that the $5.5

billion would include funding from other levels of government. THE CANADIAN PRESS

U of M astronomer helps find hidden galaxy

A photo of both Galaxy UGC 10288 and the unnamed galaxy behind it. UNIVERSITY OF MANITOBA/HANDOUT

A University of Manitoba astronomer is part of an international team that has discovered a new galaxy — and a tricky one at that.

While studying a galaxy called UGC 10288, researcher Jayanne English and other members of her team found a second galaxy hiding behind it — superimposed almost perfectly behind the first one.

"This changed the picture, quite literally," said Judith Irwin of Queen's University. "It changed our understanding of the characteristics of UGC 10288, but also gave us an unexpected new tool for learning more about that galaxy."

English and the team studied pictures of UGC 10288 taken from the Very Large Array in New Mexico in 2011 and 2012. The pictures, said

English, were the best radio images of that galaxy ever taken.

The pictures' high details showed a second galaxy, with very strong radio emissions almost directly behind the first.

"We can use the radio waves from the background galaxy, coming through the nearer one, as a way to measure the properties of the nearer galaxy," said English.

Galaxy UGC 10288 is 100 million light years away from Earth. With the latest pictures, researchers discovered the new galaxy is almost 7 billion light years away from Earth.

Irwin said the two galaxies' alignment is likely the first such alignment found.

The new galaxy has yet to be named. ELISHA DACEY/METRO

Cops surround house after firearm sighting

Police swarmed the area around a home at 881 Home St. and the roadway was blocked to traffic after police received reports that someone was seen with a gun shortly after 8 a.m. Thursday. Neighbours said tactical officers used a bullhorn to demand everyone leave the house. Police had no further information at press deadline.

Councillors fire twin audit motions toward police headquarters

'Citizens are outraged.'
Havixbeck and Gerbasi say audit sorely needed to address overspending

BERNICE PONTANILLA

bernice.pontanilla@metronews.ca

Two motions calling for a thorough outside audit of the Winnipeg Police Service headquarters will hit the floor at Wednesday's city council meeting.

Councillors Paula Havixbeck and Jenny Gerbasi have both expressed concerns over the handling of the police HQ, which had a guaranteed maximum price of $194 million.

"Citizens are outraged over the mismanagement of this file," said Havixbeck, who believes the original $135-million project price tag has grown by $75 million.

"That's 55 per cent over budget right there."

Havixbeck's motion calls for an independent audit that includes interviews with all members of the public service and elected officials who made decisions related to the project.

Gerbasi's motion differs in that it touches on the police's outdoor shooting-range project as well and calls for a "broader audit along the lines of the fire hall project which would include an examination of the management and construction of the project."

"We've been saying the same thing, it's pretty obvious, we need an audit," said Gerbasi, adding "it doesn't really matter who moves it."

Both Gerbasi and Havixbeck said they authored their motions independent of each other, but will look at perhaps melding the two into one.

Plane crash survivor says she is 'doing well'

One of the survivors of a fiery plane crash in north-western Ontario says she is on the road to recovery.

Julie Dayholos has released a statement through the Winnipeg Health Sciences Centre where she is recuperating.

She thanks everyone who has sent her support and says her thoughts are with the families who lost loved ones in the crash.

Five of seven people on board a Bearskin Airlines plane were killed when the aircraft went down on approach to the Red Lake airport on Sunday.

Police have said the plane burst into flames when it hit the ground.

CRTC asked to issue report on pick-and-pay TV

Canadian Heritage Minister Shelly Glover says she has asked the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission to prepare a report on so-called pick-and-pay television services.

Glover says the agency has until April 30 to deliver the report, including the steps the commission plans to take toward unbundling TV services.

In 2011, the broadcast regulator unveiled regulations aimed at preventing TV providers from restricting consumer choice.

Last month, the CRTC launched consultations on the future of television in Canada. THE CANADIAN PRESS

$215 million

Highway 75 flood upgrade to cost a pretty penny

The Manitoba government says its plan to boost flood protection for Highway 75 will cost $215 million.

Infrastructure and Transportation Minister Steve Ashton says the upgrades will ensure the key highway between Winnipeg and the U.S. will remain open most years.

Ashton says the cost includes some changes to waterways that have yet to be finalized.

He says one option on the table is diverting a section of Morris River.

The change will help truckers and others avoid lengthy delays and detours during spring floods.

Aqua Books. Shop owner announces closure of city's 'cultural city hall'

The man behind Aqua Books has closed the book on "Winnipeg's Cultural City Hall."

Kelly Hughes took to Facebook Thursday to write a "final post-mortem" on the used bookstore, venue and eatery he's owned and operated in different downtown locations since 1999.

"Aqua Books is dead. There, I said it," started Hughes in the post. "It's very possible that this is not news to you.... Well, when I heard it, it was news to me."

"Sometimes the closer you are to something, the harder it is to see."

Hughes announced he was closing the store's former Garry Street location in August 2011, and had been working to open a new location at 123 Princess St. when the space ran afoul of city inspectors and he encountered spiraling costs associated with getting the space up to code.

Hughes thanked everyone who worked with him to get the new location open, and

Anti-bullying concert to promote youth acceptance

Hateless. Event kicking off anti-bullying week to feature singer Flo

Organizers of an anti-bullying concert event want to promote the idea of less hate and greater acceptance.

Hateless: We Can End Bullying will take place Saturday at 12:30 p.m. at the Park Theatre.

The event will help launch national anti-bullying week and will feature a musical performance by soul singer Flo (Florence Oramasionwu), as well as presentations by Anna Morgante, a counsellor for high-risk youth, and motivational speaker Roland Vandal. The Canadian Red Cross and the Mood Disorders Association of Manitoba will also have representatives there.

"We wanted to do something for the community," said Sangeetha Nair, who is organizing the event along with Flo, a Western Canadian Music Award winner.

"Flo chose bullying because her song Hateless is all about that subject. She's gotten a lot of letters from teachers and principals who have used the song at anti-bullying events and said how it's inspired their kids."

Nair's motivation for staging the event was a little different. She was bullied in high school and doesn't want to see the same things that happened to her repeated.

"It made me hate school. I didn't want to interact with others," she said. "That was definitely part of the reason I wanted to do this. Music has a real healing element."

Nair said she and Flo hope to eventually take the Hateless tour to other Winnipeg schools and across Canada.

Tickets for the Nov. 16 concert are $5 for children and $10 for adults and can be purchased at the door, and at McNally Robinson Booksellers, Into the Music and Music Trader.

5 things that should be on the new CAO's desk

High Five! The search for a new Chief Administrative Officer for the City of Winnipeg will take many months, but that doesn't mean the lackeys have to wait around to get things organized for our new chief. Here are five things that should be on the new CAO's desk on their first day:

elisha.dacey@metronews.ca

Boots

Will need heavy-duty, weather-proof boots to make it through our winters. Will also need to wade through the mess left by the previous CAO.

Comb

Judging by the number of media appearances made by our former CAO, our new CAO just might want to keep themselves looking neat.

City of Winnipeg credit card

Will be helpful around audit time. (We were gonna suggest cash, but we all know the city has none.)

Magnifying glass

Will come in very handy when reading the fine print for contracts. Can also be used in emergencies to set flame to evidence if needed.

Bored of Ford?

A new YouTube video is trying to spread the word that Toronto is "More than Ford."

- The video is described as a "fan video" featuring "some of the things we love most about our city." It shows fashion and entertainment events, street festivals and celebrities — but no images of Ford.

'Truly disturbing'

Wynne: Ont. keeping an eye on Ford

Ontario will consider offering "new tools" to Toronto if the city's government decides it simply can't function as a result of its scandal-plagued mayor.

The first significant move towards intervention was suggested Thursday by Premier Kathleen Wynne.

"We've been watching this situation closely and listening very carefully," said Wynne. "The things that we are seeing and hearing about Mayor Rob Ford are truly disturbing."

Wynne emphasized that it wasn't the province's role to impose its own preferences upon Toronto's government. But she conceded she would consult the provincial opposition parties if the city requested action from Ontario. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Another day, another apology from Rob Ford

Warning: graphic content. Toronto mayor starts the day using foul language, then says sorry with his wife by his side

In the space of just a few hours Thursday, Rob Ford spouted an obscenity on live TV, refused to apologize then did apologize, was scolded by Canada's oldest football team for wearing its jersey and begged the media to give his family privacy — his seldom-seen wife by his side.

The latest bizarreness involving Toronto's besieged mayor set off another chorus of demands for him to leave — not just get help, but to resign for the good of the city.

The dizzying cascade of events began as Ford arrived at city hall — sporting a blue No. 12 Toronto Argonauts uniform with "Mayor Ford" on the back.

As TV cameras broadcast live, Ford used crude language to deny allegations he told a female aide he was going to have oral sex with her. A staffer told police Ford also said he had already had sex with the aide, court documents say.

"It says I wanted to eat her pussy and I have never said that in my life to her. I would never do that. I'm happily married and I've got more than enough to eat at home," he said to astonished reporters.

The Toronto Argonauts released a statement saying they were "disappointed" at the mayor for using coarse language on live television while wearing the CFL team's jersey.

Ford, 44, the father of two children, did say he was receiving support from a team of health-care professionals, but refused to elaborate.

Initially, Ford stood by his vulgar comments.

"If you're offended, I'm not apologizing, because put yourself in my shoes if someone said that about your husband or your wife," he shouted during a council session.

According to sections of court documents released Wednesday, an ex-staffer told police an intoxicated Ford made the comments at a restaurant on St. Patrick's Day last year.

The alleged incident was one of several in the document that reported questionable or bizarre behaviour by Ford: driving after guzzling vodka, sniffing cocaine, and apparently consorting with sex workers.

Ford called the allegations outright lies. Hours later, with his wife Renata nearby, the mayor apologized for what he called his impulsive and "graphic" remarks.

"When you attack my integrity as a father and as a husband, I see red," he said.

A lawyer's opinion

Ford's threats to sue likely toothless

Mayor Ford's threat to sue former staffers for telling police about activities they said included his consorting with suspected sex workers is unlikely to go anywhere, a libel lawyer said Thursday.

Case law offers protection to people speaking to investigators, said Julian Porter.

"The employees would have had a qualified privilege in talking to the police provided they weren't malicious and inventing it," Porter said.

"Now if the employees tell it to everybody else, that's a different matter."

Worldwide child-porn sweep started in Toronto

Project Spade. 50 Ontarians, 58 other Canadians among 348 arrested worldwide in a massive child-porn investigation: Cops

At least 386 children have been rescued from sexual exploitation and hundreds of suspects arrested in a sweeping child pornography investigation that began with a Toronto man, police revealed Thursday.

"It's a first for the magnitude of the victims saved," said Insp. Joanna Beaven-Desjardins, of the force's Sex Crimes Unit. "The amount of arrests internationally, also a first."

At least 348 people were arrested around the world as part of Project Spade, including 50 in Ontario and 58 from other parts of Canada.

Insp. Joanna Beaven-Desjardins of Toronto Police reports on the major child-porn investigation. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

School teachers, doctors, nurses, pastors and foster parents are among those facing charges in the wide-ranging operation that can be traced back to a business operating out of Toronto's west end, police said. The investigation was sparked in October 2010 when officers made contact with a Toronto man on the Internet who was allegedly sharing child pornography.

Police allege Brian Way, 42, had been running an "exploitation movie, production and distribution company."

Laval. 10 young teens arrested on child-porn charges; seven victims

How it got started

The Laval investigation began in earnest in October after a staff member at one Laval high school noticed that kids were huddled around a phone, looking at an image of a girl that was sexually explicit.

Child pornography, peddled by children. That's the serious accusation levelled at 10 adolescents arrested Thursday in the Montreal area.

The boys allegedly coaxed their friends and girlfriends into posing for pictures they later shared among themselves.

Aged between 13 and 15 years old, they were arrested in a sweep early Thursday in Laval, a suburb just north of Montreal.

They face various charges — including the production, possession and distribution of child pornography — and are expected to appear in youth court later Thursday.

Laval police spokeswoman Const. Nathalie Lorrain said they are hopeful the myriad files, at least one of them a video, were not widely distributed.

So far, police say they have identified seven victims — with all of the girls in the same age bracket as the accused. Police have met with the girls and their parents.

Lorrain said police have yet to go through a number of devices they seized Thursday. Other victims might be identified once police go through smartphones, laptop computers and tablets that were all seized as part of Operation Magma.

"The study of these items will allow us to know who received these images and if there were any more victims," Lorrain said.

Police said the network included students attending three English high schools in Laval. THE CANADIAN PRESS

SHINE THE LIGHT: FAMILIES OF MURDERED WOMEN SHARE STORIES OF HORROR, HOPE

Each week in Canada, at least one woman is killed by her partner. Hearing the stories of those women is critical to keeping others from facing the same fate, experts say. That's one of the strongest messages behind Shine The Light, a campaign to end woman abuse. Started in London, Ont., four years ago, the initiative is now painting towns across Canada purple during November to show support and urge victims of abuse to step forward. Here, Metro speaks to the families of three women who were victims of what campaign leaders call 'intimate femicide' — deaths when they should have been safe.

MIKE DONACHIE
Metro in London, Ont.

Paula Gallant, Halifax

Paula Gallant was a Halifax elementary school teacher. In 2005, she was strangled by her husband, Jason MacRae, during an argument about a $700 gambling debt he ran up on a credit card. MacRae then wrapped Gallant's head and face with plastic wrap for 20 minutes, to make sure she was dead.

It took five years for charges to be laid, and MacRae, who's now 40, kept living in the house they shared. He eventually pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and was sentenced in 2010 to life in prison with no parole for at least 15 years.

Gallant's sister, Lynn Blackburn, continues to campaign against woman abuse and wants the courts to take a tougher line.

"We have to take this crime seriously and hand down stiffer sentences, and make it tougher for these folks to get paroled," she said.

She calls Shine The Light "a very significant initiative" in that it shows society that violence against women is more prevalent than many people believe. Blackburn remembers her sister as "a vivacious young woman in the prime of life."

"She was somebody who had a tremendous sense of humour," said Blackburn. "Very quick-witted. Extremely bright. Loved by everybody whose paths she crossed."

Jocelyn Bishop, London, Ont.

Jocelyn Bishop was shot in 2010 with a homemade handgun — her body buried in a shallow grave dug at her London, Ont., home.

The killer was her common-law partner, Christopher Gale, who didn't tell anyone Bishop was dead until the body was found. Later, he said the 21-year-old had committed suicide. Gale, 32, was found guilty of second-degree murder and received a life sentence last month with no chance of parole for 15 years.

"She was my only sister. She was my younger sister," said Melissa Bishop. "I could be feeling really down and, no matter what, she could make me feel better. She was very compassionate."

"She had a real special love for animals and her friends and family."

The importance of Shine The Light, for Melissa Bishop, is its ability to raise awareness of abuse of women.

"A lot of the time it can just be pushed under the carpet," she said. "I don't think it's taken as seriously as it should be by some people."

And the work needs to continue, she added.

"Let women know that there is help out there," she said. "There are people who care about them and who want them to change their lives and get out of an abusive relationship."

Shannon Scromeda, Winnipeg

"I think I killed my girlfriend with a hammer," Shannon Scromeda's partner said when he called 911 in April 2008.

Kevin Strong had inflicted 15 blows on Scromeda, 25, a mother and a secretary at Winnipeg's building-services department.

Strong, now 32, pleaded guilty to in 2011 to second-degree murder and received a life sentence with no chance of parole for 10 years.

Deborah Scromeda, Shannon's mother, remembers her daughter with a smile.

"I think if you take everything that you want your daughter to be, that would be how I would describe her," she said. "She was so hard-working in her home and her career. She always had a laugh and a joke. She always had a smile."

"I think the most important thing was she was just a wonderful mom."

Speaking about the Shine The Light campaign, Deborah Scromeda said: "My respect is just beyond words."

She added: "Women can feel strength, and they can see that people care."

Scromeda wants to see more people face up to violence against women.

"It's not fully recognized, how dangerous it is in our country and in our world," she said.

High-speed rail trains to nowhere

They were seen as a shining example of Bosnia's rebirth from war: a fleet of high-speed trains built-to-order in the West. Eight years later, they haven't made a single ride: They're too fast for Bosnia's 60-year-old rails. "It's as if you bought nine Ferraris and ... no roads to drive them on," said Samir Kadric, an official with the publicly owned railway company responsible.

Not only are the tracks too old, Kadric explained, there's no money to maintain them, meaning they just decay as they sit idle.

Doctors recommend e-cigarettes: Summit

Critiques up in smoke.
Only 'theoretical' health risks identified; devices set to overtake tobacco

KIERON MONKS
Metro World News

E-cigarettes are almost completely free of health risks, and could save millions of lives, agreed health experts at a London summit to discuss the effects of the device.

E-cigarettes — which work by users inhaling vaporized nicotine — have enjoyed a surge of popularity since they were introduced around the turn of the decade, with around seven million users in Europe. Nations have moved to crack down, but a growing movement claims they offer more benefits than risks.

"We can recommend that smokers who cannot quit should switch to e-cigarettes," said leading researcher Dr. Konstantinos Farsalinos of the University Hospital Gasthuisberg, Belgium. The risks were less than one 1,000th of smoking tobacco, he told Metro.

Dr. Farsalinos added that the devices were the most effective tools to quit smoking. "The best alternative before was around 20 per cent.... In my research, up to 80 per cent of participants using e-cigarettes have quit." Medical journal The Lancet also found that e-cigarettes were more effective than Nicorette gum and patches.

The World Health Organization estimates one billion people will die prematurely from cigarette use in the next century, and previous opponents of e-cigarettes are becoming more supportive. "It's always better to quit nicotine use completely," said Deborah Arnott, chief executive of Action on Smoking and Health, a U.K. charity. "But it's the smoke that kills you — not the nicotine — so for smokers who are heavily addicted switching to safer sources of nicotine could literally be a lifesaver."

Research efforts will focus on toxicity of refills to ensure safe levels, which the WHO cites in a warning to potential users.

But with projected users set to outnumber regular smokers in several European nations by 2016, lawmakers

Regulation

Debate rages over regulation, but e-cigarette advocates won a major battle as the European Parliament has abandoned plans to impose medical regulation that would restrict sales to pharmacies.

- "Regulation puts the businesses under threat, which could mean users are forced to smoke regular cigarettes again," says Nigel Hislop of advocacy group Saveecigs.com.
- Arnott expects regulation to cover advertising to ensure the devices do not become a "gateway to smoking" for children.

will have a difficult job to turn the tide. "It's a consumer revolution, led by word of mouth rather than advertising," says Chris Snowdon, a fellow at the Institute of Economic Affairs, a British think tank. "As exponential growth continues, so many people will be 'vaping' it will make the decision for politicians."

Telecom spectrum. Ottawa tells companies to use it or lose it

Quoted

"If you've been sitting on this stuff for the best part of a decade, you're not going to be deploying it tomorrow."

Iain Grant, telecom analyst

Telecom companies sitting on licensing rights that could provide more high-speed Internet service to rural consumers are being told to use it or lose it by the federal government.

Industry Minister James Moore said Thursday the government will not renew spectrum licences for those telecom companies that have failed to use them, citing the government's commitment to improving wireless service to Canadians. "Those that have not used the spectrum will lose it," Moore said in a statement. Moore said the licences issued for the 2300 megahertz and 3500 megahertz spectrum were for fixed wireless services, which he said was the most affordable way to provide high-speed Internet in rural areas.

U.S. mobility for young adults has fallen to the lowest level in more than 50 years as cash-strapped 20-somethings shun home-buying and refrain from major career moves.

The new Census Bureau figures underscore the impact of the sluggish economy on young people whom demographers refer to as "Generation Wait."

Temp Enjoys Cocktails With The Danimal

It was after 5:00 and I was getting ready to call a cab when a flower delivery arrived — a jumbo tropical parade float that put my mind immediately to rum drinks. The Danimal passed through as I was opening the envelope. "Who's that for?" he asked.

I opened it and we both read it at once: "To most beautiful temp for glorious mcfunburry dinner. return from china very soon." I wasn't sure how to play this.

"Shannon, is there something I should know?"

"Huh?" God, not the mating panda thing again. "No!"

"That's not what I meant."

"What did you mean?"

"I saw you and Xu Junior yacking it up in the parking lot. Don't think I believe the fortune cookie English thing for a minute."

"Oh."

"Yes, oh."

I tried casually to put on my jacket. Danimal said, "Come for drinks with me. It's not a pick-up. Yes, my wife's in Florida getting her lips done, but you know that. I just don't want to go home yet, not after today."

"Where's Andy Kimura?"

"We hate each other. I don't care where he is. It's one of the reasons we're selling."

A motherlode of potential of-ice gossip was too big to ignore. "OK, but I don't go with married guys. Period."

"It's not about that. Let's go to that bar beside McFunbury's.

"The Executive Privilege Short-Term Corporate Lodging Good Time Experience?"

"That's the place. 'The Priv.' We have a deal with them."

Drinks at The Priv started badly. Danimal guzzled a double scotch and I got stupid on a rum punch. He got philosophical about cars, the way guys do. "Kevin's Shelby depressed the crap out of me. I looked at it and all I thought of was how it's too late to fix whatever bit of the economy is left after having shipped it all off to China. Think of Michigan: ten million primates needing 2,500 calories a day sitting on a cold rock in the middle of the North American continent, with nothing to do all day. A recipe for disaster. Bartender!"

More drinks. More philosophy. "Shannon, Detroit is our existential boogiemani. Detroit forces us to ponder the meaning of being alive: we wake up, we do something, we go to sleep, we repeat it about 22,000 more times, and then we die."

I looked across the bar: Sarah and Kyle were coming in and they'd obviously just been ... frisky with each other.

Danimal was being maudlin: "I don't care if you're spying on TWK for the Chinese. I just want the old system back."

Dan and Sarah locked eyes. So did Kyle and I.

"Sarah?" said Danimal ... "This place is our place. You brought someone else here?"

"What about you, Romeo?"

Kyle looked at me... "Shannon?"

Imprisoned protesters honoured

Portraits of Greenpeace activists are frozen in ice cubes in front of the headquarters of Gazprom Germany in Berlin, Thursday, during a Greenpeace protest against the imprisonment of 28 activists, a Russian photographer and a British video journalist.

The 30 people were arrested following a protest at a Russian oil rig in the Arctic.

Among the detainees are two Canadians: Paul Ruzicki of Port Colborne, Ont., and Alexandre Paul of Montreal.

Paul McCartney asks for resolution

Paul McCartney is urging Russian President Vladimir Putin to release the captors.

In a letter addressed "Dear Vladimir," the former Beatle tells Putin that he wrote the song Back in the U.S.S.R. in the 1960s, "back when it wasn't fashionable for English people to say nice things about your country."

Quoting the song's line "Gee it's good to be back home," McCartney asks: "Could you make that come true for the Greenpeace prisoners?"

"...It would be great if this misunderstanding could be resolved and the protesters can be home with their families in time for Christmas..." @PaulMcCartney tweeted Thursday. He posted the letter to his website.

Device 6:

The best slice of interactive fiction to show up on iOS in quite a while, Device 6 puts you in control of Anna after she wakes up in a mysterious castle. As you guide her from room to room, the story and gameplay unfold through text that's creatively written to take advantage of the iPhone's capabilities. The story, the sound design and the puzzles — everything about this game is beautifully polished. (iOS/$3.99)

Star Wars Pinball 2:

From the developers of Zen Pinball, the first Star Wars tables that came out a few months ago are being complemented by a few new releases. If you've never played a Zen pinball game before, you're missing out on some of the best physics and highest concepts ever used in digital tables.

Purchasing the app gets you one table with the option to buy others. For my money, they don't get better than Starfighter Assault and The Clone Wars. (iOS/$1.99)

Doom & Destiny:

If you can get over the feeling that you're being gently mocked the entire time, this parody of classic role-playing games that features four friends who somehow get sucked into a fantasy world where everybody is under the impression that they're legendary heroes sent to save a princess ... of course. The controls are tight, the battles are varied and the story plays out like a comedy script, and not just a bunch of in-jokes. However, we're still unsure if the litany of grammar errors are part of the gag or actual sloppiness. (iOS/$2.99)

Cronenberg

Have you ever wondered what a Mugwump looks like up close? How about the telepod that transformed Jeff Goldblum from man to insect? If you are a fan of Naked Lunch, The Fly or of David Cronenberg in general, you'll want to make like the Reel Guys and head to the TIFF Bell Lightbox in Toronto to check out an elaborate and comprehensive exhibit detailing the director's storied career. The show runs until Jan. 19, 2014, and presents an unprecedented look in to the mind and career of one of our greatest filmmakers. To prime the pump, the Reel Guys suggest some must-see Cronenberg films if you can't make it to the exhibit.

An ode to Cronenberg

Look back. Visionary filmmaker gets his own exhibit in Toronto and the Reel Guys take a walk through his filmography to pick their favourites

Richard: I am an unabashed fan of David Cronenberg. I felt like a kid in a candy store — or should that be an entomologist at a larvae convention? — at the exhibition and I regularly revisit his movies on DVD. One that always gets overlooked is Spider, a trip into the mind of a severely mentally disturbed man starring Ralph Fiennes. Fiennes is great in a virtually dialogue free performance but it is Miranda Richardson as several characters — all the women in Spider's life — who really steals the show. It's a spooky and cerebral thriller.

Mark: Spider was never one of my favourites although it does have a great twist ending. My thoughts on the Cronenberg oeuvre — and they're almost all great — is how ahead of his time he's been on our relationship to technology. When Videodrome came out, it was dismissed by a lot of critics. Now we live its reality every day. Same with Existenz. Both visionary films that prove how far ahead of the curve the director can be. But I think the quintessential Cronenberg film is Dead Ringers — a creepy Hitchcockian thriller that has

Third Reich overtones of medical experiments and twins — and also because Cronenberg himself looks like a gynecologist harboring a terrible secret.

RC: I also have a soft spot for The Brood. It's probably Cronenberg's most traditional horror film, and I take delight in loving a movie Leonard Maltin rated a "Bomb." Featuring Oliver Reed as an experimental psychotherapist, Samantha Eggar as a fetus-licking mother and murderous psychoplastic offspring, it is the very stuff that nightmares are made of. It's lesser seen than The Fly or Dead Zone and way more down-and-dirty, but for sheer scares it's hard to beat.

MB: I like the brood but I prefer the Dead Zone even though legend has it that Cronenberg regretted doing a movie with all the incumbent studio interference. Know what? It still works. But Cronenberg will forever be one of my favourite directors if for no other reason than breathing life into Naked Lunch. A book I should have loved but could never get through — until I saw the film.

RC: He's audacious. He made an unfilmable book filmable and opened a lot of people's minds to reading author William S. Burroughs.

MB: He did the same thing with Cosmopolis, although I must say I didn't need to see Rabid to appreciate Marilyn Chambers.

Pratt ponders the pain of parenting

Delivery Man. Actor takes on role of stay-at-home dad in latest film and feels for the moms

Metro World News in Hollywood

Chris Pratt has become something of an incredible growing-and-shrinking machine lately, getting super-buff for Zero Dark Thirty and then getting impressively out-of-shape and flabby for his latest, Delivery Man, in which he co-stars as Vince Vaughn's pessimistic friend and hapless attorney. And after that, he got into superhero shape for next year's Marvel spectacle Guardians of the Galaxy. It all sounds very painful, but Pratt is OK with you laughing at his pain.

In my opinion, you had all the best lines in the movie.

Oh, thanks. That's nice. It's kind of written that way. The character's really funny. Vince's character comes from such a hopeful place, but I think maybe the best comedy comes from a place of hopelessness, and that's where my character is at. He's just a despondent, sad, miserable type of guy, and that's where you mine the best comedy. I think to me, that's the ultimate accomplishment in acting, to be in a place of such utter pain but people find it hilarious. But hopefully not all of my pain is funny. Like the only pain that's funny is the pain that doesn't really hurt. If a brick falls on someone's head and then their brains fall out and they die, you're not going to laugh.

Unless you're a sociopath.

Right, unless you're sick. Unless you threw the brick and you're insane (laughs). But if a brick falls and hits someone in the head, and they just keep walking and pretend like it didn't happen, that is hilarious. It's irony, you know? Because it's what you don't expect. It's pain minus trauma, and I think that you get the sense that this character is going to be all right, and that's why you're willing to laugh at his pain.

It looked like all four of his kids were around the same age.

Yeah, we were busy. There was a whole back-story I had to come up with, where maybe (he and his wife) met in law school or something, she got a really great job that brought us out and we bought an apartment in Brooklyn, had one kid, she said, "If you stay home with this kid, I can continue to work and become partner." I was like, "Great, do it. I'm a progressive man, I can handle being a stay-at-home dad." And then next thing you know, four years later we have four kids, the passion's gone, I've gained weight and she's sleeping with one of her partners and she's the major breadwinner. It's the classic story, but the genders are reversed. It's like what so many men since the '50s have been doing to these poor mothers.

Film's family theme rings true for Cobie Smulders

Touched by tale.

Actress says Delivery Man's story of a man with 533 children has universal appeal

In a recent tweet-a-thon to promote Delivery Man, Cobie Smulders teased that people should go see the film because Chris Pratt gets naked.

"That was very overwhelming. I had never done that before. There were 9,000 tweets and I didn't know what to do."

The Canadian-born How I Met Your Mother actress stars opposite Vince Vaughn in a remake of Starbuck, a popular French-Canadian film about a man who finds personal redemption when he learns he is the father of 533 children.

Celeb deportment.

The Hunger Games star really meant to be less goofy this time around, but as she tells Metro, it's not working out

NED EHRBAR

I love the haircut.

Thank you. I know, I'm like a cat back from the groomers where I'm so insecure. I need as much positive reinforcement as I can get.

As soon as something went up about your haircut, someone online chimed in with, "It must be a wig."

Yeah, I know. That's just how it works. The most important thing is to not read it, Jennifer! I'm really good at it. The only time that it does happen is when I'm with friends. I have two friends that are avid Googlers. They basically do what I would do if I didn't have the self-esteem. They're like, "What is everybody saying about Jennifer?" It's sweet; they care.

When my Dior photos came out, I hadn't seen them so they looked them up on whatever website with all these comments, and I saw the comments and I was like, "I can't stop myself!" I started scrolling and it was like, "She's so conceited!" "She's a pig and I hope she dies!"

Never read the comments.

Exactly. I was like, "I'm sorry if I look conceited — I understand — in Dior couture clothes. But I didn't get to keep them. Why would you want me to die?" But that's just how the world works. I'm not going to get worked up about it.

Pixie 'do

"I know, I'm like a cat back from the groomers where I'm so insecure."

Jennifer Lawrence on her new haircut

Jennifer Lawrence reprises her role as Katniss Everdeen in The Hunger Games: Catching Fire. CONTRIBUTED

Can I tell you the most ridiculous thing I've read about you?
Yes!

There was this inside Hollywood post on Reddit where someone wrote, "Jennifer Lawrence employs a professional joke-writer."

Employs a professional joke-writer? Oh my God, that is my biggest fear with this new (Hunger Games movie), because we're doing (press junkets) again.

Last night I was laying in bed going, "Everybody's obviously going to get sick of it, the goofy, crazy (stuff). It was maybe funny for one season, but if it just continues everybody's going to be like, 'OK, calm down.'"

So I, like, tried to make a conscious effort to be poised and mature this time around. I was like, "I have to change myself."

How's that working out?

It's not. But I just have this thought that everybody's going to think it was perfectly planned. That actually goes into my nightmares. If I had read that, I would've been like, "Oh my God, how do I prove that it's not true?"

But it will exhaust me. I'm so anxious and high-strung, and I'm such a worrier anyway that I've gotten good about making a wall of the things that I can't (deal with). I'm like, "I can't even begin to worry about you right now. I'm already worried about cancer."

I worry about cancer.

Yeah, everybody does. And then worrying gives you cancer. Everything does.

You've been very outspoken

about body image issues and negativity.

We need to go easy on each other. And the media is so responsible for it. The worst part is that they pretend they aren't responsible for it. They're like, "It's the real world." Everybody puts that defence up of, "Oh, this is just the way the world works." But what if we said that in the '40s and '50s when black people had to use different bathrooms? "Sorry, welcome to the real world." Until you stand up for something and change it, the world isn't going to change.

Have you ever come up with weird nicknames for parts of your body?

No, I haven't. Should I?

For instance, I've been referred to — affectionately — as Sausage Fingers.

Oh my God! I'm Grubby Paws because I have sausage fingers too! Cool (high-fives)! Can you get liposuction in your fingers? I need to find a surgeon who will do that. My feet are very individual. My giant shoulders, at least they'll protect me.

What's the most inappropriate thing you've done with your Oscar?

I put it in a closet by my bathroom — but only because it made me feel weird to look at it because I was like, "What am I supposed to feel? Am I feeling what I'm supposed to?" It made me over-think in my own house.

And then I didn't want anybody who's coming over (to see it). The last thing I want you ... to be is intimidated. So it's with my parents now. My mom can intimidate people.

Meet the new kids

New face: Finnick Odair (played by Sam Claflin)

Who he is: An attractive and agile former contestant not above using his looks to get what he wants.

Downside of popularity: "As much as there was a fair bit of negativity when I was cast initially, I think now a few people have been turned, and my goal is to obviously turn the world. That's what Finnick's goal is, as well, so I guess that I have that in common with him," says Claflin. "Approaching a character that is described as some kind of god was kind of tough, to say the very least. I had to go through some huge physical transformations, (including) a shaved chest."

New face: Johanna Mason (played by Jenna Malone)

Who she is: An ax-wielding loose-cannon of a Hunger Games victor with a flair for the dramatic.

What makes her special: "What I thought was so amazing about Johanna Mason is that she doesn't sugar-coat and she is hard core and truthful and violent and angry, and all of those things are not just cool aspects of her," says Malone.

"I don't really think there's anything that's (just for the sake of being) a badass thing. I think it's actually a survival technique, and I think that's a really interesting thing to talk about for young women; to understand that they can take on tools and personality traits that may not be their own, but they can use them in forms of survival to be able to sort of elevate themselves in the world."

Talk about a revolution

Donald Sutherland and Jeffrey Wright discuss the movie's politics:

The Hunger Games is entertainment, sure, but there are some interesting political messages buried in there for young audiences. And for Donald Sutherland, who co-stars as the villainous President Snow, that was the real appeal. "It was essential for me personally that I somehow found my way to become a part of this because it more clearly represents the dangers of an oligarchy of the privileged than anything I've seen for a long, long time," he says.

Jeffrey Wright, who joins the series in Catching Fire, thinks the political power of The Hunger Games goes beyond warnings about the one per cent run amok. "I think what's fascinating about the movie is that it's kind of this universal spectrum that allows anyone to insert themselves into the world and really express their own perspective and their own politics within it," he says.

"The politics for the young people in the movie are very simple. They're politics around hope, family, security, love and all of these very simple, universal themes that we all relate to."

The Hunger Games sequel finds hero Katniss Everdeen back in the arena, competing with ex-winners. Here's what else you need to know.

NED EHRBAR

Metro World News

Why we need Katniss

Elizabeth Banks on the lack of strong female heroes:

What makes The Hunger Games great, to hear Elizabeth Banks explain it, is that Katniss Everdeen is a "badass female protagonist." And the actress who plays her isn't too shabby, either. "Jennifer is an amazing actress who gets amazing roles, and I wish that she gets them always and forever for the rest of her life," says Banks, who co-stars as fancy-pants minder Effie Trinket in the film series. "I've been doing it a little longer, and I know there are a lot of girlfriend roles out there and a lot of wives and a lot of supporting roles that are less interesting than Katniss."

"I hope that she gets to play Katniss-level roles for ever and ever. They're rare, and I think with this movie, (and) Gravity — I'm so excited to be seeing such amazing, strong female role models in the movies for the 50 per cent of the moviegoers who are ladies."

building in The Hunger Games, so we worked with the same production designer to make sure that the Capitol was still built from the same architecture, that District 12 still had the same almost 1930s Appalachia feel."

"He was able to expand the world while still staying very true to a character-based, emotionally honest approach," says producer Nina Jacobson, who has Lawrence directing the next two films.

Catching Fire finds a new man behind the camera, with Francis Lawrence taking over for Gary Ross.

"One of the things that I wanted to make sure of was that there was still an esthetic unity to all of the movies," he says. "I thought Gary did an amazing job with the world-

Dystopia: So hot right now

Books, movies and TV shows angling to be the next Hunger Games:

Can't get enough of the dark, foreboding future of The Hunger Games? Well, plenty of authors and filmmakers are hoping so, as there are a number of other properties out there tapping into our current obsession with a bleak future.

Divergent: Both a book series and a forthcoming (presumed) film franchise, this one also has a plucky female protagonist, Tris, in a future world divided up into sections — this time by moral code. You can read the books or wait for the first film, starring Shailene Woodley and Theo James, in March.

Revolution: NBC's series about survivors of a world suddenly gone electricity-free is well into its second season, and even features a young girl who's handy with a crossbow.

The Maze Runner: Think of it as The Hunger Games but without the girl. The boys in the mysterious "glade" contend with monsters and mazes in search of freedom. Again, if reading isn't your thing, there's a movie adaptation out next year.

Proxy: Alex London's novel also takes place in a nightmare future U.S. of sorts, this time with the Haves employing the debt-laden Have-Nots to suffer their punishments for them as "proxies." And on top of all that, its main proxy protagonist, Syd, is gay. There's a second book due next spring.

The NBC series Revolution is now in its second season. CONTRIBUTED

A polished-up formerly-lost Peter Gabriel track, lots of talented banging from Rakede and the Russian Police Choir's Daft Punk cover

Courage

Courage/Peter Gabriel

While this formerly lost track turned up on the 25th anniversary reissue of the So album last year, it's now been refurbished, added to and remixed. Welcome back to 1986

Bitte Bitte/Rakede

A totally acoustic performance involving a German band, six beer bottles and lots of banging on a wooden table. The best bit comes when one guy sucks in some helium for his vocal part at about the 1:04 mark.

Get Lucky/Russian Police Choir

A rehearsal for a Kremlin concert features a Daft Punk song and was posted on YouTube. They win the Internet this week.

CBS is planning a two-hour special to mark the 50th anniversary of the Beatles' groundbreaking first appearance on The Ed Sullivan Show.

The Feb. 9 special will be billed as a Grammy Awards salute to the Beatles. It will be recorded the day after the Grammys are held two weeks earlier. Top contemporary artists will cover songs the Beatles performed on Sullivan, a historic night in music that launched Beatlemania in the United States.

The special will be aired 50 years to the day the Beatles appeared on Sullivan, in the same time slot and on the same network.

No participating artists were announced Thursday.

Video Game Review

Knack

System. PS4

Rated. Everyone 10+

● ● ● ● ●

The first game for the new PlayStation 4, Knack is a hero who changes size as he absorbs rocks, crystals, and other materials around him. This keeps you on your toes, always adapting for when he's nimble-yet-weak as a little guy, or capable of Godzilla-like rampages when he's a giant. Crystals make him stealthy, but ice will melt him in sunlight, and each transformation is a chance to show off the PS4's vibrant, graphics. The family-friendly characters could use more charm, but the game is clever and rewarding. KRIS ABEL/METRO

Comparing part-prep to military life? Don't say hi to your mother for me!

While Mark Wahlberg plays a Navy SEAL in his latest film, Lone Survivor, he wants to make it very, very clear that his training for the film pales in comparison to being an actual SEAL.

"For actors to sit there and talk about, 'Oh, I went to SEAL training?' I don't give a f— what you did," he said during a post-screening Q&A in Los Angeles. "You don't do what these guys did. For somebody to sit there and say my job was as difficult as being in the military? How f—ing dare you, while you sit in a makeup chair for two hours."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Your honour, I never cuddled with that woman!

PAT HEALY
Metro World News

Alec Baldwin can sleep easier at night knowing his stalker is behind bars.

On Thursday, a New York City judge found Canadian actress Genevieve Sabourin, 41, guilty of stalking, attempted aggravated harassment, harassment and attempted contempt of court. She was sentenced to six months in jail.

The trial was dramatic, even by New York City standards. The two did seem to have some history: Baldwin admitted on the stand he had dinner with Sabourin three years ago at an Upper East Side restaurant but said it was to give her "career advice." She claims that afterwards, the two had sex and then "cuddled," which the 30 Rock actor denies (both the sex and cuddling). Baldwin allegedly said, "I make the best omelettes in the world and I'd be happy to make you omelettes every morning for the rest of your life." He also promised her a trip to meet Richard Gere. Hello single girl fairy tale! But then once he met his current wife, Hilaria, the fairy tale ended. And that's when her stalking began, with frantic calls, emails and even uninvited appearances at his house.

Matthew McConaughey

McConaughey might be in the market for a few new shirts

Matthew McConaughey's career transformation over the past two years might have something to do with realizing his public image had gotten a bit ... fluffy. "I get it," McConaughey tells GQ magazine. "Outdoors, shirtless on the beach, does a lot of rom-coms, girlfriends love him, good-looking. It's like he rolls out of bed and shows up and makes it look easy." But while he's gotten more serious in the roles he chooses, some things never change. "Of course I still play the congas naked," he says. "I just close the windows."

Lily Allen

Lily Allen responds to video backlash

Lily Allen's return to music after a four-year hiatus is off to a bumpy start, with critics crowing that her new video, Hard Out There, is racist. So Allen has taken to Twitter to defend herself. "If anyone thinks for a second that I requested specific ethnicities for the video, they're wrong," she writes. "The video is meant to be a lighthearted satirical video that deals with objectification of women within modern pop culture. It has nothing to do with race at all."

Liquid Assets

Embrace your inner pirate

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy

To sip, or not to sip: that is the question when it comes to brown spirits.

Whisky aficionados will tell you the only way to properly appreciate their chosen tippie is as far away from mix as possible. Except for seafaring scallywags, your average rum drinker is much more cocktail-oriented.

Well, we're all a pirate at heart, and rum has seen an upswing as the devoted take a pass on coke and dive into the nuances a fine cane spirit reveals right out of the bottle. It's the smaller batch, pot-still output that tastes best as a singular liquid entity.

Demerara has a reputation for being the cognac of rums. Typically dark and oak-aged, they're a sophisticated sipper, especially served over ice.

El Dorado 12 Year Old Demerara Rum ($33.95 to $37.99) is a blend of molasses spirit that's rested in used whisky barrels for a dozen years. The outcome is spicy and begs for contemplation. Hide it under mix if you must, but I don't know why you'd want to.

Weather the winter in a warmer home

DIY. With a few quick projects, you can save money on heating bills

To keep your family warm and the energy bill down this winter, invest a few hours in some small and simple DIY projects. With minimal tools or experience, it's easy to fix poor insulation or chilly drafts that normally send you running for the thermostat. Even minor improvements can help put money back in your wallet over the course of a long Canadian winter.

Slip on a water heater blanket

Water heaters warm to the touch are losing heat and costing money. If a new energy efficient water heater isn't in the budget, quickly installing a blanket is an affordable way to prevent heat from escaping. Blankets for gas-fired water tanks should be installed by a professional to avoid potential fires.

Install plastic window insulation

Block out cold drafts and lock in the warm air with plastic window insulation. While many new homes have high energy efficiency windows, they're an expensive investment and are best installed in the spring or summer.

For a fast and temporary fix, plastic window insulation can go a long way in lowering your energy bill and keeping your family warm. Simple to install and barely visible, the sheets are easily peeled off in the spring.

Caulk the windows

For a more permanent fix, consider getting out the old caulking gun and resealing windows. To find out where heat is escaping, carefully move a candle around each window frame and watch for the flame to bend. Make sure to tie back curtains, blinds or anything else that could catch fire before beginning.

Next, pick the proper caulking with the help of a local professional. Once the old caulk has been removed with a putty knife or razor blade, you're ready to start caulking.

Insulate with a storm door
In the summer months,

Resealing windows with a caulking gun can help block out cold drafts. ISTOCK storm doors are excellent for letting in extra sunlight and increasing ventilation. In the winter, they provide an added layer of insulation and are great for locking out the cold.

Most storm doors come in kits that make it easy to install in an afternoon. For the most savings, look for a door with a high energy efficiency rating.

Lending a helping hand

Free time. There are myriad ways to contribute your time and resources during the holidays

DOUCET
For Metro

When the holidays roll around, many Canadians are facing several days off work and wondering what to do with their free time after the festivities are over.

How about lending a helping hand?

"The holiday season is a great time to reflect on a volunteer effort that you might like to begin now and continue to do throughout the year," said Paula Speevak-Sladowski, the director of programs, policy and applied research at Volunteer Canada.

If you were thinking about serving a meal at a homeless shelter, walking dogs for an animal rescue group or singing carols at a seniors' home, don't wait until the last minute to sign up.

"Each organization has a volunteer screening process that can sometimes take weeks to complete," Speevak-Sladowski said. "To avoid being disappointed, make your inquiries early."

So what are some common volunteer needs around the holidays? During the winter many adults and kids need warm clothing, so you can either donate coats, snowsuits, boots, gloves and hats that you no longer wear from your own closet or join a local group that collects and distributes them.

Food banks also hold drives at this time of year — you can donate money in person or online or buy non-per-

Since there is a need for warm clothing in the winter, you may want to join a local group that collects and distributes clothing. MANGOSTOCK/SHUTTERSTOCK ishable goods to help stock the shelves.

The most important factor is to figure out what you have to offer, then find somewhere that can use your talent. If you are crafty, you could make and drop off decorations at a seniors' residence.

If you like to knit, you could join a knitting group that donates hats and mittens to a children's hospital gift shop.

There are myriad ways to contribute your time and resources.

"You can volunteer as an individual, as a family, at your workplace, in a school or with an organization," Speevak-Sladowski said.

If you aren't sure where to start, two helpful websites are volunteer.ca and getinvolved.ca.

And don't worry if you aren't keen on your volunteering effort the first time you try it.

"If you didn't have the experience you were hoping for, keep looking until you find the right fit," Speevak-Sladowski said. "When everyone's needs are met, volunteering benefits everyone."

THE TRUE MEANING OF THE SEASON

TIME TO THINK ABOUT CHARITABLE GIVING

With all the holiday frenzy, it may be easy to forget the importance of charitable giving.

We may be bombarded with requests, but do we actually open our wallets and support those in need? How do we decide on which charities to support?

And considering all the other expenses at this time of year, why would we choose the holidays to make our donations?

"People make donations throughout the year, but charitable giving does start to rise in late October and continues to increase right up to Dec. 31," says Marina Glogovac, president and chief executive officer of CanadaHelps, a registered charity with a mission to help other charities, providing affordable, online fundraising technology for charities, and offering a destination for Canadians to give to the charities of their choice.

Glogovac believes this is partially out of habit and partially for tax benefits, but she also believes Canadians want to share with those in need during this time of year to realize the true meaning of the season.

While cash donations are still the most popular, there are other ways to give.

"Charity gift cards are a great way to spread giving," Glogovac says.

CanadaHelps.org offers charity gift cards for many occasions, and the recipient chooses the cause (from any of Canada's 86,000 charities) to which they want to contribute.

"Another trend is pooling family members together to make a group donation to a charity in lieu of exchanging family gifts."

Also growing in popularity is giving an item instead of cash, anything from livestock to trees can be gifted to a family in a developing country in someone's name.

Perhaps the most important decision is which charities to choose.

"Many people give to their alma maters, health-related charities and to communities in need, but there are many other worthy charities," Glogovac says. "It's important to choose based on what's important to you, especially if you're considering regular donations and planned giving."

Start with research.

"Don't just look at the obvious choices. There are many incredible small charities that do great work. Spend some time figuring out what's important to you."

Visit the Canada Revenue or CanadaHelps websites, or check out individual charity sites to read about charity visions, mission statements and more to help you decide.

HELP A BLIND PERSON SEE

Ninety per cent of the 39 million blind people in the world live in low-income countries and the majority won't walk into a hospital and request sight-restoring surgery for something as treatable as cataracts, the leading cause of blindness. They are too poor. They don't understand they can be helped. They have no way to get to the hospital. They are frightened. They are women and children and not able to travel freely. They will stay blind until eye care is brought to their doorstep.

Seva Canada has worked for more than 30 years to restore sight and prevent blindness in low-income countries. Seva believes eye-care programs must leave the confines of the hospital.

"The most important thing we do is to connect blind people, the majority of whom live in remote, rural areas with the eye care that can help them," says Seva Canada executive director Penny Lyons. "This is accomplished by studying the financial and social barriers that prevent people from accessing care and using this knowledge to empower people to get the help they need."

THE JOURNEY OF A LIFETIME

PLAN CANADA'S GIFTS OF HOPE

When Jillian Mojeski travelled 11,000 kilometres to Rwanda, she learned that changing the world can be as easy as giving a Gift of Hope.

She and her colleagues at Klick Health had donated gifts of livestock through Plan Canada's Gifts of Hope, and those animals were given to families in some of the world's poorest countries to help create self-sufficiency and grow community cooperatives.

"It's so easy to give and my small donation made such a huge difference," Mojeski says about the impact of her gift.

Mojeski made the journey to rural villages to see the community development projects made possible by contributions from both her and her colleagues. She met schoolchildren eager to learn in safe, hygienic schools, and young women and men learning plumbing and construction at vocational training centres. She talked with pig co-operative farmers and families thrilled to have clean water thanks to the generosity of Mojeski and other donors.

"There's such a sense of pride," Mojeski says. "People are really excited to demonstrate projects your donations funded. It was an opportunity to shake someone's hand and close the loop in the contribution."

Mojeski is one of thousands of Canadians who will choose to give Gifts of Hope this holiday season. When you buy a Gift of Hope, your contribution supports real projects — like livestock co-operatives, clean water and education projects — in the communities where Plan Canada works, and these gifts change real lives.

"Sitting at your computer, clicking yes, thinking you are making a difference — it's not even close to the experience of seeing the actual impact for yourself," Mojeski says. "Now I realize that a small donation of an animal represents more than just food or a business opportunity.

MATCHED GIFTS

Thanks to Plan Canada's partners, your donations will go even further. Look for "Matched" gifts at plangifts.com.

A pig co-operative can empower an entire community."

Plan Canada works with children and communities in 69 countries around the globe, helping them to create a better life and a better future for their children.

"In rural communities, livestock is often the first step to household economic security," says Sangita Patel, Plan Canada's director of program management. "It starts with families selling things like eggs or milk. With extra cash, mothers can better care for their families. There's money for more nutritious food, medicine and school supplies. Young women in some communities have formed co-operatives with livestock, creating leadership opportunities, increasing their confidence and self-esteem."

This holiday season, generous Canadians can make a profound difference for children and communities around the world. There are more than 40 Gifts of Hope that support international development programs. Projects in the areas of livestock, education, health, water and livelihood help families break the cycle of poverty and open up new opportunities for their children.

You can also support Plan Canada's Because I am a Girl initiative by choosing from 15 gifts that support the rights of girls. By purchasing these gifts, you are supporting the work Plan Canada does that directly benefits girls and women.

"The Gifts of Hope program is perfect for the holiday season," Mojeski says. "Rather than giving a gift that will just end up in the closet a few weeks later, you can give a meaningful gift that will change the lives of the people who need it most."

A Gift of Hope gives to both the giver and the recipient. A gift can help teach and nurture philanthropy in children, create global awareness and remind us all that the greatest joy lies not in receiving but in giving.

During her trip, Plan Canada's Gifts of Hope program exposed Mojeski to both personal and global change. The experience opened her eyes to the value of sharing what we have to improve the lives of others.

"I will be involved with Plan Canada for the rest of my life," she says. "With Gifts of Hope, you're empowering people to change their lives and that really is a gift of love."

PROVIDING CONTRACT-FREE BOOKING

Roger Sing has been around the music industry for a long time as an event organizer and as a performer in his band The Rock Show. He brings what he has seen from both sides of the stage to R.S. Music Productions, his independent booking agency.

"There's a lot of talent in town, but many of the venues aren't able to let performers in because of exclusive contracts they have with other booking agencies," Sing says.

His company's approach gives venues a more flexible arrangement for booking live music.

"There's no contract. I work one on one with the venues to offer quality performers at reasonable prices."

This includes helping venues determine which acts will go over well with their customers.

"We have over 35 bands and feature everything from solo artists, country, rock and alternative bands to a full 18-piece orchestra."

While Sing reviews each act's repertoire, his practice is to let the performers have creative control over their material.

R.S. Music Productions provides bookings for bars and hospitality rooms as well as socials, weddings, fundraisers, festivals and private corporate events.

"Since we don't have exclusive agreements, we work really hard to make sure everyone's happy every time," Sing says.

This includes ensuring the performers show up and are paid fairly after the company's small booking fee.

In addition to getting performers into more venues, R.S. Music Productions has helped bring live music back to places like the Nor Villa Hotel.

Noele Gauthier, manager, says,

"Roger has the bands ready to go and we don't have to worry about a thing," says manager Noele Gauthier. "The live music has been really good for the community."

SILOAM MISSION CARES FOR THOSE IN NEED

For many of us, the coming of the winter season means staying at home, snuggling up in a warm blanket, and watching holiday specials on TV.

But for many Winnipeggers, that is not an option. On Oct. 14, Siloam Mission's Thanksgiving meal fed 1,125 hungry Winnipeggers who would otherwise have been out in the cold.

"We expect large numbers for our Christmas meal as well," says Siloam executive director Floyd Perras. "These are men, women and children who turn to Siloam Mission for a sense of community during the holiday season."

With the holidays approaching, and Winnipeg's cold winter upon us, Siloam Mission is reaching out to the community to help support the people who need it the most. A donation of only $3.11 helps Siloam Mission provide a hot meal and care for someone in need. Beyond just a hot meal, Siloam Mission provides shelter and transitional services for its clients, as well as warm winter clothes when the temperatures start dropping.

"We're 80 per cent funded by donations," Perras says. "People can donate online, over the phone, or at 300 Princess St."

Non-perishable food items and warm clothes are also needed. With the holiday spirit in mind, think about helping someone who really needs it, today. A complete list of the most needed items can be found at siloam.ca.

HELP THOSE STRUGGLING WITH ADDICTIONS

When struggling with addiction, sobriety can seem like an overwhelming and unreachable goal. However, recovery is never out of reach, no matter how hopeless or intimidating it seems. Change is possible with the right treatment and by addressing the root cause of the addiction.

For many addicts, addiction starts at a young age when they turn to available chemicals to escape the discomforts of everyday life. Not understanding the cause, they place blame on everyone else for their circumstances and are accountable to no one. Eventually, they lose control of their lives and substances consume them and make all their decisions for them.

All this begins to change when they enrol in Welcome Home. Welcome Home is more than just a rehab centre. It is a life-skill training centre for young men and women ages 19-34 who are committed to changing their lives.

At Welcome Home, program participants are kept productively occupied at all times. Idle time for addicts is dangerous — it leads them to thinking of justifiable reasons to give in to temptation. The structure at Welcome Home is exactly what is needed to help maintain the sole focus of recovery. Having the regiment and the daily routine helps build students into the people they are meant to become.

The daily program includes:

- Group therapy
- Physical exercise
- Vocational skills development
- Social skills development
- Leadership training
- Recreational and social activities
- Life skills training in nutrition, finance, mental wellness, healthy relationships, etc.

Through constant and consistent practice, only possible in long-term treatment, Welcome Home students gain the life skills and coping skills that were missing in life before.

Most of all, they learn that no matter what challenges come, the greatest challenge is overcoming themselves and the destructive patterns they developed in their addiction. Welcome Home pushes students beyond previous limits they set for themselves. They learn to be productive and to live fulfilling lives where using drugs is not an option. They learn to be responsible, not only for themselves, but also for others. They develop strong foundations for lives of sobriety and learn that life is worth living.

Inevitably, the road to recovery is full of stumbling blocks, pitfalls, and setbacks. However, with effective, long-term treatment, these obstacles become opportunities in disguise and help program participants develop mentally, socially, physically, emotionally, and spiritually until they are ready to live as responsible, contributing members of society for life.

For addicts still living in addiction, know that change is possible and all is not lost.

Don't waste another day. Stop the pain. Lifelong sobriety is within reach. Be bold. Make a choice. Decide today to make the right decisions. The first decision is to get help.

For more, call Welcome Home at 1-855-592-3001 or visit whrecovery.org.

CHANGING LIVES

Welcome Home promises to provide everything that is needed to change lives. The only thing required by potential students is a commitment to change. This is made possible by generous funding from the John Volken Foundation and through donations of supporters, which make Welcome Home the most affordable long-term treatment program of its kind.

One-hundred per cent of all donations go directly to supporting Welcome Home program participants in their recovery.

Sharpshootin' Jets need power-play work

Team Canada bound?

Ladd's shootout success could be his ticket to Sochi 2014

They may have the worst power play in the NHL, but the Winnipeg Jets have been deadly when it comes to shootouts.

In 71 tries, the Jets (9-9-2) have managed to score only six power-play goals this season, for a lowly 8.4 per cent.

But they've won four out of five shootouts, team captain Andrew Ladd has scored in five straight attempts and he shares a three-way tie for the NHL lead with three shootout-deciding goals.

Ladd says he tries to keep it simple and plans what he's going to do before he starts down the ice.

"I don't really have any secrets, I think I just pick a move," he said Thursday.

"I don't try to overdo it. I don't try to make any fancy moves or anything. I just go down, try to pick a shot or different angles and go from there."

Ladd shrugged off suggestions his prowess at the shootout might boost his chances of making Team Canada for the Olympics. Shootouts are even more important in international play.

"I'm not really paying much attention to that. I'm just more focused on trying to get this team wins," he said.

Jets left-winger Andrew Ladd scores a shootout goal against Red Wings goalie Jimmy Howard on Tuesday in Detroit. The Jets won 3-2.

PAUL SANCYA/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Considering their success in the tiebreaker, it's perhaps unfortunate for the Jets that the league is looking at ways to reduce the number of shootouts, perhaps by changing the current five-minute overtime period.

If they do, Ladd says he would like to see the NHL opt for a 3-on-3 five-minute overtime period.

Coach Claude Noel endorsed the same idea, suggesting it would certainly increase the chances of a game-winning goal.

But one area the team desperately wants to improve right now is its power play, ranked 30th in the league. The players know it is dragging down their game.

"It goes hand in hand," says Olli Jokinen.

"If you look at the top teams in the standings they're most likely top in their special teams as well. That's the one area where we've got to get better, that's for sure."

The Jets currently sit in 11th spot in the conference, ahead of only Nashville, Calgary and Edmonton.

Ties to CEO Miller could put Jones atop Bombers' list

CFL. Former Blue Bombers all-star QB is among several who could be under consideration for Winnipeg coaching job

DARRIN BAUMING
winnipeg@metronews.ca

With the Grey Cup just over a week away, the head coachless Winnipeg Blue Bombers are in an exhaustive search for their next football man.

While naming a general manager — who will ultimately make the final decision on who will lead the Blue and Gold on the field in 2014 and beyond — is the first order of business, there are some potential bench boss candidates.

Former Bombers all-star pivot Khari Jones's name is probably being bandied about the most. Currently the quarterbacks coach with the Saskatchewan Roughriders, Jones's experience in a headset may be limited, but his personal and business relationships with Bombers president and CEO Wade Miller has this rumour burning red-hot.

The Stampeders' offensive co-ordinator Dave Dickenson may be the most sought-after candidate in the entire CFL, but the third-year play-caller has been adamant he is not interested in leaving Cow Town.

Marcel Bellefeuille, who joined Winnipeg mid-season as a consultant and then offensive coordinator, is also in line to snag his second CFL head coaching gig. If Jones's head-coaching credentials don't stack up, a repeat of the Bellefeuille-Jones coach-coordinator tandem from Hamilton in 2011 may re-emerge.

Jacques Chapdelaine has operated the oft-potent B.C. Lions' offence since 2005, and may now have the desire to make the career jump and run his own club.

Toronto's Scott Milanovich was named coach of the year after leading the Argos to the 2012 championship in his first season as a head knock. While he is coveted by his current employer, the Blue Bombers may want to offer him the almighty role of general manager and head coach — a position reserved for the rare talent who has earned the ultimate trust.

In 13 games played, Gorrie had 14 goals and 16 assists, which netted the forward 30 points in the MMJHL's first full month of the season.

Foley foresees West Division final fireworks

CFL. Rivalry heats up once again with a Grey Cup berth on the line

Saskatchewan Roughrider defensive end Ricky Foley has been here before — staring down a tough team in a division final, with the possibility of playing in the Grey Cup on home turf on the line.

The Riders will play the Stampeders in Calgary in the CFL West Division final on Sunday, with the winner heading to Regina for the Nov. 24 Grey Cup.

Foley was with the Toronto Argonauts last season when they won the Grey Cup at home. But first, the Argos had to get past their arch-rival Alouettes in Montreal in the CFL East Division final.

It's only Foley's first year in Saskatchewan, but he says the Riders' feelings against Calgary are similar.

"You can feel it. It's definitely palpable," Foley said after practice Thursday. "You can sense it around here with the guys who have been with the team for a while. I know how much they don't like Calgary.

"We've got some guys on our team who like to talk; they've got some guys on their team who like to talk. They've got some guys who like to hit; we've got some guys who like to hit. So any time you have that, I think it's put into a little bit of a melting pot and it's pretty combustible right now.

"I think there's a genuine distaste for each other right now at this point and Sunday's probably going to explode and we'll see what happens."

Some things are similar to last year in this division final, Foley said, while others aren't.

"Well, for me it's a lot colder. I was in a dome last year doing this sweating, so that's my main difference," Foley joked. "The feeling, it's pretty similar. Even when I was in B.C., it's pretty similar. You know, you get to this point, you realize it's the CFL and anybody can win on any given day. The best four teams are left and you've got to bring your A-game." THE CANADIAN PRESS

West Division final

Roughriders at Stampeders, 3:30 p.m., Sunday (TSN)

Calgary won the season series 2-1, with both wins coming at McMahon Stadium. Saskatchewan advanced to the conference final by downing B.C. 29-25 last weekend, with quarterback Darian Durant going 19 of 23 passing for 270 yards and two TDs and running for a game-high 97 yards on six carries.

Both teams have solid rushers as Calgary's Jon Cornish had a CFL-leading 1,813 yards, with Saskatchewan's Kory Sheets second at 1,598. But they also sport solid defence as the Riders allowed a league-low 22.1 points per game, while the Stampeders were second at 22.9.

The Stampeders were 8-1 at home and 7-1 versus West Division competition.

Pick: Calgary

East Division final

Ticats at Argonauts, 12 p.m., Sunday (TSN)

The two franchises will meet Sunday at Rogers Centre in their first East final showdown since 1986.

All signs point to a tight, high-scoring affair at Rogers Centre. Both quarterbacks are veterans and have won their share of big games, including Grey Cups. But Toronto has done a better job of protecting the football, with just 32 giveaways — including a league-low nine interceptions — and 18 more takeaways than turnovers.

Hamilton can't say the same, committing 45 turnovers during the season and finishing -13 in the giveaway-takeaway bracket. That often decides the outcome of close games.

Pick: Toronto

Miggy extends MVP reign for another year

MLB. Tigers' star slugger Cabrera named AL's best again after winning another batting title in Detroit

All those who marvel at Miguel Cabrera can only wonder what he might have done this year if completely healthy.

Even so, Cabrera was a huge hit in Motown.

Despite being hobbled by all sorts of ailments, the Detroit Tigers slugger won his second straight American League Most Valuable Player award Thursday, once again beating Angels outfielder Mike Trout by a comfortable margin.

A season after winning baseball's first Triple Crown in 45 years, Cabrera came back to lead the majors in hitting at .348 and finish second with 44 home runs and 137

RBIs.

"I think this year was tougher because of the injuries," he said on a conference call from the Miami area.

"It was the last two months. It was tough to play through it."

Still, Cabrera got 23 of 30 first-place votes from members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Pirates centre-fielder Andrew McCutchen took the NL MVP by a surprisingly wide margin after leading a baseball revival in Pittsburgh. McCutchen drew 28 of the 30 first-place votes after hitting .317 with 21 home runs and 84 RBIs in 2013. He also scored 97 runs, stole 27 bases and had a .404 on-base percentage. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

You may not be able to ignore problems on the work front but you can lessen their impact by refusing to worry about them.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

There is no copyright on ideas and if someone else's insight grabs you and makes you think you can use it for your own benefit then do so and don't feel in the least bit guilty about it.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You may not care what other people are saying about you behind your back but the planets suggest it might be a wise move to find out.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

What loved ones need most is a few words of encouragement, and that's something you never fail to deliver.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The more you hurry lately you less you seem to get done. Do you think you should take the hint? Don't worry about falling behind in your schedule. If you take things easy today you may actually find you get more done.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Someone at work or in your social sphere may say something hurtful today but you don't have to take it seriously. It's only words and words cannot do lasting damage, unless you let them. Ignore what you don't want to hear.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Just because friends don't seem too impressed by your latest big idea does not mean you should abandon it.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Generally speaking you don't try too hard to make yourself look good – as far as you're concerned it's up to other people to impress you – but it will pay you to put on your best face today.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

The answer to a problem of some kind is more likely to come to you if you stop searching for it so hard.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

The more someone tries to convince you of their honesty the more careful you should be. The fact that they are making such a big issue of it suggests they may have something to hide. You're not the sort to be easily fooled – are you?

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Cosmic activity in the most sensitive area of your chart means you find it hard to let others know how you feel. Maybe that's just as well.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Mistakes are a fact of life, so if you make one today don't feel too bad about it. On the other hand, if a friend or colleague points out that you are making the same mistake over and over again then maybe you do need to act.
